Now the DC city clerk job is all hers

By TERRY DAVENPORT

Betty Mazza is the first one to admit that Anna Ohlendorf is a hard to follow.

During the 2½ months since Daly City's City Council voiced its intention to appoint Mrs. Mazza to fill out Mrs. Ohlendorf's term as city clerk, Mrs. Mazza has been quizzing the veteran city official during every spare moment and taking down notes.

In the flurry of farewell parties for the retiring Mrs. Ohlendorf, who served Daly City 23 years, there wasn't enough time for Mrs. Mazza to ask her all the questions on her mind.

Suddenly, it was April 2 and Mrs. Mazza was being sworn in by Municipal Court Judge Margaret Kemp as cameras clicked. As she shook hands with the council members, the elegantly-dressed and carefully-coiffed new city clerk had the look of a patient being treated with electroshock.

Mrs. Mazza's frazzled state of mind is understandable, for her life has been in a state of turmoil ever since Mrs. Ohlendorf took her aside last fall and asked her if she had given any thought to becoming city clerk.

"It was something I had never thought of doing. I was perfectly content in my job as deputy city clerk," the petite, 52-year-old woman said.

As she spoke, Mrs. Mazza looked uncomfortable in the huge swivel chair she inherited as part of her new private office. The chair kept leaning backward when she leaned forward.

Her hands trembled slightly when she lit a cigarette and recalled the jittery feeling she had during the two weeks she mulled the idea of vying for the job.

Her family, friends and Mrs. Ohlendorf encouraged her to try for it. But her husband Carl's opinion was the most important to her. Well aware of the late-night meetings and many social functions that the city clerk must attend, Mrs. Mazza told him, "I can't do it without your blessing."

He gave her his unqualified support.

During that period of deliberation, Mrs. Mazza thought, on the one hand, that it would be ideal for someone like herself — with seven years of experience in the city clerk's office — to provide continuity.

On the other hand, she and her husband knew that they would have to move from their South San Francisco home into Daly City if she were to seek the office, since the city clerk, by law, must reside in Daly City.

And they knew they would have to move soon, because the city attorney interpreted the law to mean that the city clerk must reside in Daly City at least 30 days prior to being officially appointed.

It also occurred to Mrs. Mazza that someone else might be interested in the job.

Someone was: Rick Silver, a lifelong resident of Daly City who works as administrative aide to Assemblyman Louis J. Papan (D-Millbrae). Mrs. Mazza guessed correctly that at least one councilman, Victor Kyriakis, would support Silver, because Kyriakis had run several of Papan's political campaigns.

Although Mrs. Mazza finally decided she definitely wanted the job, she shied away from calling up any council members to request their votes, as Silver did.

Instead, she poured her energy into looking for a new home. She and Carl put a deposit on a house in Daly City without knowing whether or not she would get the job.

Mrs. Mazza arrived at the Jan. 22 meeting, at which the council was scheduled to choose Mrs. Ohlendorf's successor, without any idea of her chances.

As the council began discussing the possibility of holding a special election to fill the vacancy, Mrs. Mazza bowed her head and took minutes of the meeting with extreme concentration. When the council voted 3-2 to appoint her to the job, she looked startled, then smiled and blushed bright red.

Since the council members couldn't make her appointment definite until after Mrs. Ohlendorf retired March 31, they officially appointed Mrs. Mazza to the position Tuesday - this time with a unanimous vote.

Back in 1972, when she was interviewed for her first job with Daly City in the city clerk's office, Mrs. Mazza had only one concern.

"I was scared to death, because I'd been away from office procedures for so long," she said.

Her interviewer, Mrs. Ohlendorf, assured her that she, too, had been rusty on typing when she went back to work after raising a family.

Mrs. Mazza had devoted her time to raising three sons, David, Steven and Richard. Her previous office experience dated back 26 years to the job she had during World War II as head of the incoming mail section for the U.S. Naval Shipyard at Hunter's Point.

The Indianapolis native had come clear across the country from South Carolina, where she went to high school, to take the job. Her father

Cemetery tours to begin April 28

LWV sponsors walks, talks

The glorious and sometimes notorious deeds of California's founders will be recalled April 28, when the League of Women Voters of North San Mateo County sponsors the first historical tour of Colma's 14 cemeteries.

Called "Stepping Stones to History," the tour will run from 1 to 5 p.m., beginning at Cypress Lawn Memorial Park.

Although the tour basically will be self-guided, guides from the Heritage Foundation and the California Historical Society will be stationed along the way to direct the public to points of special interest.

The state recently nominated Colma's cemeteries to the National Register of Historic Landmarks because of their significance in the shaping of California. Daly City Librarian Samuel Chandler, who nominated the cemeteries for landmark status, will be the chief informational resource for the tour.

The oldest cemetery, Cypress Lawn, was established in 1897. After San Francisco's supervisors voted in 1937 to evacuate the city's cemeteries to make room for new houses and offices, 145,000 bodies were moved from that city to Colma.

Highlights of the tour will include viewing the elaborate tombs of such notable California families as the Hearsts, the Crockers, the Sterns, the Spreckels and the Gianninis; fanciful memorials such as Hugh Whittell's pyramid-shaped marker; and mass monuments like the one dedicated to the 35,000 early Californians who were moved from Laurel Hill in San Francisco to Cypress Lawn.

Visitors taking the tour will be given brochures to guide them as they walk and drive along the route. Those who do not finish by 5 p.m. will be invited to complete the tour by themselves on another date.

Cost of the tour is $6 per person. Reservations may be made by writing by April 25 to League of Women Voters Tickets, Box 807, Daly City 94015; telephone 952-2981.

Connie Hammerman, the League member who organized the tour, said it will be held rain or shine.

Persons who want to tour all of the cemeteries should arrive promptly at 1 p.m. since a complete tour takes about four hours.

Proceeds will be used to finance the League of Women Voters' voter service projects. Among them are candidates' nights and booklets distributed to the public that summarize the pros and cons of issues.

The tour will be April 28.

Council agrees, a car can't be turned around in 23 feet

Daly City Traffic Engineer Keith Dellaway settled an argument between City Council members Monday night when he said flatly that it is impossible to turn a car around in a space 23 feet wide.

Council members asked Dellaway to attend the meeting, because they weren't convinced at previous sessions when a Daly City property owner said the same thing.

Sam Leonetti of San Francisco had told the council that the city staff had advised against including parking spaces on his narrow lot next to the Cow Palace, because the cars would not be able to turn around and, thus, would be forced to back out into heavy traffic on Geneva Avenue.

But the council stalled on his request for a variance that would permit him to build a commercial building on the lot without room for parking.

Dellaway had the last word when he said trying to turn a car around on a 23-foot-wide lot would be "like trying to turn around in a normal two-car garage."

That argument settled, Councilman Anthony Giammona picked up on Dellaway's suggestion that Leonetti might be able to arrange parking on a nearby vacant lot.

Councilmen Albert Teglia and James Tucker said they would grant Leonetti a variance from the city's parking requirements if he beautified the front of his building.

No final action may be taken on Leonetti's request until the next council meeting, April 9.

Other business:

WATER RATES — Council members indefinitely postponed a hearing originally scheduled for April 9 at which they were scheduled to hear a proposal for raising local water rates. The council decided to wait until San Francisco raises its water rates. Daly City buys water from San Francisco.

RAISE — Council members learned they have the option of raising their salaries 5 or 10 percent or to keep them at the same rate. They are scheduled to discuss the matter April 9.

GRANT — April 9 also is the date set for a public hearing on Daly City's application for $833,000 in federal funds under the Housing and Community Development Act. Two local residents' groups have challenged the manner in which the council plans to spend that money.

Colma Creek

DC studies flood tax assessment plan

At least one Daly City council member is unhappy about a plan for continuing the Colma Creek flood control project.

Councilman Anthony Giammona said at a City Council study session Monday night that he believes charging local residents a special assessment to continue the project "would be going against the spirit of Proposition 13."

After hearing Peter Bohley of the county Public Works Department predict the end of the project unless assessments are charged, Giammona said he questioned whether the project should continue.

Bohley explained that the cities of Daly City, South San Francisco, San Bruno, Colma and Pacifica banded together with the county to form the flood control district to avoid being slapped with a tremendous lawsuit over damage caused by the flooding of Colma Creek after a major storm.

All of the jurisdictions loaned funds, which are supposed to be paid back. Daly City alone advanced about $700,000 to the project.

But Bohley said work remains to be done and the passage of Proposition 13 reduced the flood control district's annual revenues from $900,000 to $461,000.

He gave the council two alternatives: to stop work on the project or to continue construction by levying a special assessment against residents. In Daly City, that assessment would add $16.10 to the annual tax bill sent to the owner of a home valued at $80,000.

If the district had to depend totally on assessments for its revenues, Bohley said that charge would increase to $32 per year.

He said District Attorney Keith Sorenson's office interpreted such assessments to be legal, despite Proposition 13.

Giammona wouldn't go along with that interpretation.

Council members are scheduled to discuss the proposal at their next regular meeting on April 9.

Formality reigns at swearing-in

Daly City's city officials looked like they were going to a wedding again Monday night.

In recent weeks, they have donned boutonnieres and corsages at several dinners and receptions for outgoing City Clerk Anna Ohlendorf, who retired March 31 after working for Daly City for 23 years.

This time the occasion was the swearing-in of the new city clerk, Betty Mazza.

The council members wore white carnations and Mrs. Mazza and Mrs. Ohlendorf wore white orchids as Municipal Court Judge Margaret Kemp stepped forward to do the honors. Small pots of African violets and mixed bouquets decorated the council chambers.

Judge Kemp apparently thought it bad taste to pin the white orchid she was given on her black robe, so she stood around holding the flower most of the evening.

The thick, rubber-soled hiking shoes and beige pants she wore were visible as she administered the oath to Mrs. Mazza.

Mrs. Ohlendorf beamed with pride as Mrs. Mazza repeated the same words she had said 17 years ago when she became city clerk.

In her speech, the new city clerk said, "I've been asked several times in the last few days if I'm ready to take Anna's place. My answer is that I don't think anyone can ever take Anna's place."

She said, however, that she would try to continue providing the same level of service that Mrs. Ohlendorf had provided.

Mrs. Ohlendorf, City Treasurer Anthony Zidich and the four council members present had warm words of welcome for Mrs. Mazza, who smiled with gratitute as each person spoke.

Mussel Rock transfer station to be dedicated

The public is invited to the dedication of Daly City's long-awaited transfer station on Saturday, April 14, from 2 to 4 p.m.

Use of the facility, which is used to compact garbage, is scheduled to begin April 16.

The transfer station is located at Mussel Rock near the Daly City-Pacifica border.

Originally, it was scheduled to be completed by Jan. 1.

and stepmother also worked at the shipyard.

She quit her job shortly after she got married in 1946 at the age of 20.

The Mazzas lived in San Francisco until 1958, when they moved to Broadmoor. By 1973, the family had outgrown that home and its single-car garage. After looking at many homes for sale in Daly City, they bought one three blocks over the border in South San Francisco's Westborough section.

"I felt like a resident of Daly City," Mrs. Mazza said. The most difficult part of living outside Daly City for her was not being able to vote during elections for Mrs. Ohlendorf and the council members.

Fewer than six years after she began working in the city clerk's office, Mrs. Mazza assumed the second highest job in the department and became deputy city clerk. But she served as deputy clerk for 10 months before the council got around to paying her the additional $200 per month that goes with the job.

Through the years, she worked closely with Mrs. Ohlendorf and the previous deputy city clerk, Betty Buckley, not knowing that both would retire within two years of one another.

In retrospect, Mrs. Mazza now believes that the two were deliberately training her to take on added responsibilities, which she did with enthusiasm.

Traditionally, the city clerk is the keeper of the city's records. However, Mrs. Mazza and other employees in her office find they are spending more and more of their time helping the city sort out complicated state and federal regulations that must be followed in order to qualify for dole-outs.

In Daly City, the city clerk's office also has the dubious honor of fielding oddball phone calls that come into City Hall.

Mrs. Mazza recalls how she once got a call from a man asking what he should do with a dead woodpecker in his backyard.

After careful thought, she suggested wrapping it in newspaper and putting it in his garage can. The man thought that was a fine idea.

Mrs. Mazza is just as courteous with the other people who phone looking for lost relatives or a recipe for chocolate chip cookies. At this time of year, she said with a sigh, the office gets innundated with calls from angry taxpayers.

"We listen until they talk themselves out," she explained. She wouldn't want to hurt anyone's feelings.

Mrs. Mazza's heavier responsibilities have brought her more reasons to worry. One of her main concerns is finding someone to fill her former job as deputy city clerk.

She was alarmed when several of the 11 persons who recently took the qualifying tests for the job told her the exams were extremely difficult. She doesn't expect to know until June whether anyone even passed them.

Another worry was supervising the Tuesday election, since she finds the frequently-changing election rules to be one of the most complicated parts of her job.

Mrs. Mazza said she also has some concerns about giving orders, rather than taking them. For example, the idea of evaluating the five employees in her department makes her uncomfortable. She squirms in her seat at the idea of ever having to fire someone. The thought alone prompted her to light another cigarette.

Mrs. Mazza figures she will follow Mrs. Ohlendorf's example of working right alongside the other women in her office. That means that she will make photocopies, answer phones and deal with people who drop by if she sees that the other employees are busy.

"I've always worked well with people. I think you can get a lot of work out of people by being very nice to them and working along with them and explaining why and when things have to be done," she said.

She isn't planning any sweeping changes.

"In the years I've worked with Anna, I've learned how she handles certain situations and I think she knows I'm in complete agreement with the way she does things. I don't foresee any changes other than if we stumble upon an easier way of doing something," she said.

What Mrs. Mazza is planning is to carry on Mrs. Ohlendorf's efficient and effective procedures with the zeal of a devoted friend. After she was sworn in Monday night, the new city clerk explained in a soft but firm voice, "I will try to continue Anna's work as she has taught me and provide the same level of service."

As she gave that short speech to a roomful of people, she trembled with fright. When she was done, she turned to the council and said, "Whew!"

But, alas, there is yet another worry ahead for Mrs. Mazza. In 1980, she must win an election, against Silver and possibly other candidates, in order to keep her job.

That, said Mrs. Mazza, is more than she can bear to think about right now.

A good child's book

"A righteous man regardeth the life of his beast."
Old Testament:
Proverbs XII.10.

Lately the regard that some men have for animals has produced a continuing run of books that make delightful reading.

"Such Agreeable Friends" (Universe, $8.95) is one of the most delightful new animal books. Here Jeremy Mallinson has collected twelve stories of "adventure with animals" by 12 noted writers. He selected each one because he found in it "an enthusiasm for the delectable fascination of the world's wildlife."

"Such Agreeable Friends" is the kind of book to read when you want to curl up for a pleasant evening. Among the stories is a tale of polar bears so large they can kill their prey with one colossal blow. Yet history shows that these creatures are loth to attack man. Polar bears' favorite game is tobogganing down steep slopes on their bellies. They are defenseless in the water, yet on hard, firm ice they are dreaded and invincible foes.

Among the other selections in "Such Agreeable Friends" are Gerald Durrell's "The Bafut Beagles," and Ivan T. Sanderson's "Squirrel-Monkeys," "Oppossums, Grison and Jaguar," and June Kay's delightful story of Jerry Mallinson's adventure with African lions.

Richard Fiennes' "The Order of Wolves" (Hamish Hamilton, $6.98) is representative of many books that are written to help mankind understand what must be done if the "fast-disappearing species" of animals are to be preserved. Nothing is omitted from such volumes. With words that inform they discuss everything from a specie's anatomy, to his sociology to his relations with man.

Do you know that the wolf reached his maximum development during the great Ice Age, and has not changed in structure sinc ethen? Ice Age men came to respect and fear the wolf and place dthese manias on their descendants, even on to today's city dweller. Yet wolves have seldom attacked men and have often befriended mankind in his struggle for survival. As near as it can be determined, wolves are the ancestors of all species of dogs — yet domestic dogs have never shown an affinity for wolves. The wolf brain, weight for weight, is one third larger, on average, than that of domestic dogs. For this reason, some writers have concluded that the wolf is the most intelligent of terrestrial mammals.

"The Order of Wolves" is a fascinating book, brightened by many illustrations. It is a title that many readers will enjoy.

THE DIET CORNER

By Elise Gendar, the Diet Workshop

Beware becoming the food sneak!

You know you're a food sneak if:

You love to clear the table because you hate to throw away leftovers.

You volunteer to be the refreshments committee for the PTA or whatever.

You buy candy for Susie, cookies for John, pies for your husband, etc.

You never eat in public — not before God and all those people.

Your friends consider you gain all that weight by breathing because they never see you snack.

You have only one meal per day that lasts 24 hours.

Your pocketbook harbors a pack of emergency rations to last through any 15-minute trip.

No room in your house lacks a hidden cache of goodies.

You hold the record for fast eating at your table.

You skip breakfast.

You overorder at bakery stops — never a dozen of anything, but 15 instead.

You hate your guests when they finish off the cake.

Your cupboard is bare and you can't remember why.

Why are these tip-offs to the distinguishing characteristics of the food sneak! Because you're sneaking the knowledge of what you eat, how much you eat, why you eat, and when you eat right past your own consciousness.

You set yourself up to have food available to you wherever you go. And you disguise the fact by always having an excuse built in.

How kind of you to handle the garbage detail by becoming the garbage can. How sweet of you to do the work for organizations and have access to the sweets. How loving of you to provide treats for the entire family — and yourself. How clever of you to avoid the eyes of others; their testimony proves you don't overeat (whenever they're around). How astute of you to keep a little bit here and there so you can say truthfully you aren't eating big meals. And so it goes. There's always the reason, always an excuse.

How about coming out of the closet and owning up to what you are? Away with the sneak. On with the dieter. And with foods like my recipe for the week, who needs subterfuge?

ORANGE YOGURT SPONGE

- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
- 2 cups plain yogurt
- 1 cup orange juice
- ¼ cup cool water
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 6 packets artificial sweetener
- 2 egg whites, stiffly beaten
- orange slices or sections.

Sprinkle gelatin on fourth cup cold water to soften, then heat gently to dissolve. Stir into yogurt and combine fruit juices. Chill until partially set. Beat egg whites and sweetener until stiff. Fold into gelatin mixture. Turn into five cup mold and chill until firm. Unmold just before serving and decorate with orange slices.

I'd love to hear from readers with any questions you might have. Just write to me at The Diet Workshop, 2533 Taraval St., San Francisco 94116.

Kitchen talk

By Nell Norton

Good morning, good cooks.

Many magnificent pasta dishes would be quite ordinary if it weren't for the dairy foods like butter, cheese, milk and cream that turn them into delectable entrees. This one made with green noodles is tossed with butter and parmesan cheese plus some minced clams to make it more hearty. Accompany this with a mixed green salad, crusty French bread and ice cold milk.

CHEESE AND CLAM FETTUCINE

- 6 ounces green noodles (about 4 cups)
- ¼ pound bacon
- ½ cup butter
- 2 cloves garlic
- 1 (6½ ounce) can minced clams, drained
- 1 cup grated parmesan cheese.

Cook the six ounces noodles according to directions on package. Meanwhile cook the fourth-pound bacon until crisp. Drain and crumble. Melt the half-cup butter and add pressed garlic cloves and can of drained clams. Toss hot drained noodles with butter mixture and grated cheese. Serve on warm platter. Top with crumbled bacon. Garnish with ripe olives if desired. Makes four or more servings.

The Gamesman

New version of an old game

By RICHARD C. MOON

Sandro Botticelli was one of the greatest of the Italian Renaissance painters. He lived form 1440 to 1510. Often commissioned by the medici family, his best known works are of a religious nature, such as "Adoration of the Magi."

"Botticelli" for some reason also became the name of a popular parlor game. It is a sophisticated verstion of Twenty Questions, in which the winning player is the one who knows the most about famous or infamous people and fictional characters. A good description of the game may be found in Scarne's Encyclopedia of Games.

James M. Gleason of Corvallis, Ore., has copyrighted an interesting and unusual form of Botticelli called "Botticelli in the Can." It is published by the BITC Games Co. of Corvallis and sells for about $8. It is similar to the old parlor game, with revisions to make it more exciting.

BITC is packaged in a can about 10 inches in diameter and about two inches high. The game equipment consists of three separate sets of delimiting cards (occupation/vocation, historical period and geographical location), a round playboard with a plastic spinner, score sheets and instructions.

BITC is a game of recall based on well-known persons. It is fun to play and mentally stimulating. It can be played by two people or as many as you can crowd into a room. This makes it great for parties.

You can play this game a few minutes or for as long as you like. Gleason makes it plain that his rules are "not written in stone" and players are urged to use their own imaginations to make changes that will make the game more entertaining..

The basic rules are not complicated but the space of this column is too short to give them in detail. Simply stated, the idea is to outscore your opponents by coming up with the names of well-known people matching the three sets of cards, the same concept as the original parlor game.

The round playing board is divided into rings which are, in turn, divided into sections relating to the cards. The spins of a turn are cumulative so that by the third spin you must come up with a name that fits all three requirements. For instnace: A sports figure, after 1918, north of the equator. One ring contains all of the letters of the alphabet for which there is no corresponding set of cards. Where possible, the initial must match the last name of the person chosen.

With many games published by smaller companies, you may not be able to find BITC everywhere. You can order it by mail through BITC, P. O. Box 195, Corvallis, Ore. 97330.

BITC goes far beyond Botticelli and I have no doubt in my mind that it is a winner.

Hotcakes fill up terrier

By D.R. BARNETT, DVM

QUESTION: My husband is a hotcake and waffle fiend. He'd eat them every day if I made them for him, but I don't think it's good for him. My question is this: He also feeds these to our terrier, complete with butter and syrup. She sometimes eats so much for breakfast she isn't hungry again until the next day. Don't you think this is too much?

G.G.N.

ANSWER: An occasional feeding of waffles, syrup and butter is all right for your dog, but these things shouldn't be fed too frequently because they don't consist of a balanced diet. A good brand of commercial dog food is the best for long-term feeding.

QUESTION: Does fresh catnip harm a cat? What is there in catnip that makes them act so goofy? We put some on the top of the cat's scratching tree and he practically passed out for a while. We never dit it again because he is nervous and nutty enough without giving him something to stimulate him even more.

—P.G.

ANSWER: Fresh catnip acts almost like a hallucinogen in some cats. It ususally is not harmful, but since your cat is nervous already there is no need to stimulate him unnecessarily. He can survive very nicely without catnip.

QUESTION: My neighbor is scared to death of anything crawly. She is frightened particularly of spiders and claims that big spiders, like tarantulas, can jump as high as three feet. Did you ever hear of such a thing? I told her tarantulas can be kept as pets and are not really dangerous at all.

—K.F.

ANSWER: I don't know about tarantulas and I don't want to. My inquiry to a pet shop gave me the following answers. They can't jump three feet. Their bite (in most cases) is comparable to a bee sting. They sell for $19.95. Please research tarantulas before you purchase one. I have been told that the male tarantula breeds once and then dies.

Roof rat project begins

A project to rid communities of roof rats is about to begin, offering its free abatement services to residents of Daly City, north Westlake and Bayshore districts, South San Francisco's Buri-Buri district, and San Bruno's neighborhoods east of El Camino Real.

Any homeowner or renter in these neighborhoods is eligible to receive consultation and advise about rodent control, inspection of yards and house exteriors, "ratproofing" of home, placement of poison bait blocks on fences, thinning or removal of ivy and other vegetation, and trapping rats from inside home.

The $219,959 CETA Title III project is being conducted by Peninsula Community Services, Inc., 753 Del Monte Avenue, South San Francisco.

Public school financing: today's dilemma

Perspective

By ARVILLE FINACOM

"Disastrous" is the best term to describe Gov. Brown's proposed school finance measure being carried in the Legislature by State Sen. Holmdahl as SB 550, says Dr. Julian Crocker, acting superintendent of San Mateo City School District. For Crocker's district and most of the other "wealthy" ones in San Mateo County, the governor's plan could result in a budget squeeze of 10 to 20 percent as it shifted in 1980-81 away from "bail-out" money (immediately available 1979-80 funds) to a revenue formula utilizing property tax funds still there after Proposition 13.

Although there are some vocal individuals within the general public heard saying "Who cares?", there are many in the community taking steps to acquaint the average voter with not only the process legislation must follow on its way from idea to law, but also the necessity for certain criteria to be used in judging an education measure's acceptable effect.

PT Aunits and councils up and down the county are highlighting school finance, conducting general information sessions and initiating letter-writing campaigns to legislators about finance issues. Members of elected school boards are encouraging increased participation by the general public in budget setting sessions. Teachers and administrators also are speaking out about finance matters. For them it becomes somewhat of a survival process.

The "program/people" relationship as it involves school finance is one worth studying since, at the present time, the laws governing hiring and firing bear no leagl connection to money matters. So, when school funds are short, and leads to analysis of program vs. people, program (translate specific job assignment) becomes the loser.

Administrative programs with little or no direct pupil contact are under heavy scrutiny in these days of declining dollars. For example, two local school districts, San Bruno Park and Millbrae, once had assistant superintendents for curriculum. Both sets of school trustees asked the questions "Is the position essential to children?" "Could the areas of responsibility be handled as well by others?" "Who might do what and what might be eliminated if the position were to be abolished?"

San Bruno Park's dilemma solved itself with the election last November of Superintendent Bill Jennings to the post of county superintendent of education. Assistant Superintendent Robert Rottman became, first, acting superintendent, then was appointed to fill permanently Jennings' position. In effect, the trustees have left to him the shuffling of priority classification of his varied assignments.

In Millbrae, trustees voted to eliminate the position of assistant superintendent for instruction. That doesn't mean current Assistant Superintendent Rufus Clapp is out of a job. Clapp has tenure in the district and could be employed either as a teacher or principal. But it does mean a shifting of his many job activities to others, presumably principals and classified (non-teaching credentialed) employees. Some of the things Clapp did in recent years, although not visible generally to parents and the general public, include the nuts and bolts work of building various education programs, writing funding requests and doing the massive paper work involved in state and federal programs (education for the handicapped, English as a second language, mentally gifted) as well as coordinating development of district-wide emphasis such as the basic skills curriculum (proficiency/competency) and the school improvement plans required by state legislation, AB65.

In earlier years, Clapp worked as coordinator with parents, teachers and other administrators in development of a school district philosophy and goals statement and of family life and multi-cultural education curricula. He also set up an appropriate method of evaluating teachers (as required by the Stull Bill in the early 70s) and provided many opportunities for teachers and other staff members to experience local in-service education, allowing them to upgrade classroom skills.

Among his "best" experiences as director of education and research (1968-1972) and assistant superintendent for education services (1972-1979), Clapp lists the summer in which he and selected staff worked on the district "basic skills in communication skills (reading, writing, speaking) and math" and the opportunity he had of working first with a district advisory group and later with in-school committees in development of the curriculum for Early Childhood Education.

Earlier I mentioned criteria for judging school finance measures. Dr. Austin Sellery, superintendent of the San Mateo Union High School District, along with superintendents of the elementary "feeder" districts, San Bruno Park, Millbrae, Burlingame, Hillsborough and San Mateo City, issued a joint statement late in March listing three criteria local administrators see as vital.

Long-range handling of school finance is one. Year-to-year legislative "bail-outs" are unacceptable not only because they inhibit comprehensive forward planning but also because they have such a damaging effect on the morale of school personnel. Some 350 of the 5,000 teachers in San Mateo County were given layoff notices last month to meet a legislation-mandated preliminary notice March 15 deadline. Since notices must be sent according to strict seniority guidelines, teachers are not the only ones affected.

As Sellery puts it, building administrators must ask how best to preserve the thrust of their schools' programs, faced with a system which often removes and reshuffles key people. Long-range funding also needs to reflect income stability and this, in a sense, demands consideration of an adequate inflation factor which would allow districts to meet soaring fixed costs — for utilities, insurance, supplies, etc. — as well as provide personnel with a cost-of-living increase in line with local figures.

The third area about which local administrators agree is the need for categorical funding, especially for programs mandated by state and federal law. Education for the handicapped is a case in point. Teachers need special training to work with the handicapped youngsters being "mainstreamed" as a result of PL94-142, "The Education for All Handicapped Children Act of 1975." Class size needs to be adjusted and often special equipment purchased. Other "hidden" costs per pupil exist and money, if not available from a categorical funding program, must come from the school district's general funds, decreasing the amount available for other education.

How can the average citizen get involved? Legislators, as well as local school trustees are often influenced by a responsible, personal approach. They do pay attention to constituents' comments and requests if they perceive that the person writing, phoning or talking to them in person knows and cares about the issue.

The Regent

By GENNY HOM
Commissioner of Outside Publicity

Congratulations to Marianne Galvin, who recently was chosen Serramonte High School's student of the month.

Marianne is a cheerleader and has been for three years. She has really done much to help promote Serramonte's spirit.

Last week saw a special homeroom period. Students were placed in different classrooms by grade and alphabetical last names and met with a teacher. The purpose of the homeroom was to turn in the class choice coupons for next year's schedule and to talk to teachers about what classes to sign up for.

Senior girls interested in joining a sorority at the University of California, Berkeley, next year should read the letter on the counseling office bulletin board.

Serramonte High's first class reunion for the classes of 1971 through 1975 will be this Saturday at the Hyatt on Union Square at 8 p.m.

Study Body elections have been changed to April 18 because this week is finals week and many teachers are giving tests and do not want their classes interrupted. The Executive Board extends its apologies to the candidates for the delay of election day and wishes all candidates the best of luck.

The first session of Serramonte's nursery school was March 30. If you would like to enroll a child in the nursery school, contact Mrs. Jacopi.

Freshmen are selling chocolate Easter bunnies for 25 cents. Get them while they last.

Show your Serramonte spirit and buy a black and red pom-pon. You can get them in the treasurer's office for 50 cents.

Freshmen students who have not had a vision screening test this year, any student who has entered school since the beginning of the year, and students who suspect that his or her vision is decreasing, should go to the nurse's office between now and Easter vacation.

The Indian

By LORRAINE WILSON
and LINDA LEE

Jeff's baseball team now is 0-3, losing all of its first three league games and being rained out of game four against Terra Nova.

The Indians opened their season against South City at Marchbank Park. With the score 3-0 in their favor, Nolan Smith was pitching a three-hit shutout going into the sixth inning when the Indian defense slacked up, making three errors and giving up five runs.

The Tribe was shutout in its second league game March 20 against El Camino. The Indian pitcher was Dave McDonnell and the final score was 8-0. The team faced Serramonte at Orange Park March 23. The going was good for the Indians, leading 3-0 until the fourth inning. That was when defense once again letup, causing a final score of 4-3.

Jeff's badminton team had its first league match March 21, beating Westmoor 8-1, taking all doubles matches and three singles.

Jeff's Latin Heritage Club sponsored a talent show in the Little Theater March 29. The show featured two comedy acts consisting of "Fancy Dancers," students dressed in wigs and choir robes, and "Dallas Cheerleaders." Entertainment also was provided by four singers, Deborah Lopez, Theresa Lopez, Janet Moor and Tenika. Adding to the show were strutters and pianist Paul Lysenko playing a classical and "Somebody Saved My Life." During intermission there also was modeling.

On the whole, the talent show was entertaining and a success.

The Navy Band visited Jeff March 27 after second period, livening the gym with the beat of "Le Freak," "Eye Contact," "Three Times a Lady," a combination of 1950s songs and many other numbers. Jeff students enjoyed the music, and are looking forward to the band's next visit.

The Art Club started its Easter sale April 2 and will continue until April 6. The club is selling items such as Easter baskets, colored eggs, stuffed animals and more. Support the Art Club and get into the Easter spirit.

State readies sale of I-380 land

The state Department of Transportation is in the process of selling the state right-of-way for the extension of Interstate 380 to the coastside.

Caltrans spokesman Paul Hensley said the state bought 62 acres for the extension to Pacifica through Crestmoor Canyon and across Sweeney Ridge.

The land is being appraised now and when that is done, the acreage will be offered to local government agencies. Local agencies include the cities in which the land is located, San Mateo County and the federal government.

In Crestmoor Canyon in San Bruno, the state owns 34 acres. Hensley said this includes the canyon-proper from Interstate-280 to Skyline Boulevard.

The state also owns a 13-acre orchid farm in Pacifica leased to Shelldance Nursery and 15 acres in the Sweeney Ridge gap, the latter automatically reverting to the federal government.

Al St. Cyr, city manager of Pacifica, said he does not know if the City Council is interested in buying the nursery site.

He noted the council will discuss filing a lawsuit against the state to prevent it from selling the freeway right-of-way. A report from City Attorney Robert Lanzone will be given to the council next Monday.

The California Transportation Commission voted recently to rescind the extension of 380 to Pacifica.

CHILDREN'S DANCE CLASSES

There still are openings in some of the Daly City Recreation Department spring children's dance classes at the Westmoor Park and Westlake Park clubhouses. Ballet, as practiced by these youngsters, tap, and jazz at various proficiency levels are being taught. Deadline for registration is Friday at the rec office, 134 Hillside Blvd. Parents must register children and pay fees in person. Most classes meet once a week after school.

McCovey's first day has a lot of sentimental value

Please note that yours truly has studiously strayed from any discussion about the Giants' controversy over Who's on First.

There are sentimental reasons involved, more so than for the average fan who has watched McCovey since his not so humble beginnings.

Big Willie means more to me than just a great slugger who often has helped my hometown team win baseball games. The symbolism is much stronger.

You see, every time Willie McCovey strides to the plate, he reminds me of my wife, Robin, despite the fact she can't hit worth a damn.

Because the night Willie McCovey broke into the big leagues at Seals Stadium with four hits off Robin Roberts also marked the first date I ever had with my wife.

Hell, I know it sounds like an old Bill Stern story, but it's true.

But the analogy does break down, because on that same night, I struck out.

Well, you can see this is going to be trivia week. So I think it's a good week to get the local "electronic media" straightened out on how to pronounce some of the more prominent Italian names in athletics around these parts.

It's not "John Mon-ta-fuuusco," but "Moan-ta-foo'-sko."

Not "Tony Con-ig-lee-are-o' but "Koan-ee-lee-are'-o."

And certainly not "Dan Bell-owl-o-mee," or seemingly 100 other versions, but "Bell-wo-man-ee."

One of the brightest new monthly publications in the Bay Area is the "Giants Booster Shot," a newspaper devoted solely to the Giants and the Giants Booster Club.

Modestly almost, but not quite, forbids mentioning that I write for it.

But that shouldn't deter any of you from subscribing to it (you don't have to be a Booster) for the whole baseball season for only $5.

Write to "Giants Booster Shot" at 1231 Market St., San Francisco 94103, Phone 626-6022.

Some's A's statistics which might surprise you:

Rick Langford, the very promising but very hard-luck Oakland righthander, has the 10th best lifetime ERA (3.75) in Oakland history, and is already, despite the fact that he's put in only two seasons, eighth in total innings pitched, ninth in strikeouts and 10th in shutouts.

Outfielder Mitchell Page, also only a two-year man, has the highest Oakland lifetime batting average (.296), the second best slugging average (.490), behind only Reggie Jackson's .503, and is 10th on the homer charts.

Claudell Washington, no longer with the A's, has the second highest lifetime BA (.285) and the seventh best slugging average (.389).

Campy Campaneris is the lifetime leader in seven of 12 major categories; Most games, most at bats, most runs scored, most hits, most doubles, most triples, and most total bases. Surprisingly, he's 6th in home runs, third in RBI, third in total bases, and eighth in batting average.

Other Oakland statistical oddities (or so they seem); southpaw Dave Hamilton, who is back in the A's camp after a Charlie Finley exile, and who was mainly a reliever for the A's, has the 10th highest total wins (20) in Oakland A's history, and the sixth best winning percentage (.555).

Rollie Fingers had big production numbers for a guy who was primarily a relief pitcher for the A's. He's fifth on the all-time win list, fourth in most losses, fifth in innings pitched, third in strikeouts and fifth in walks.

And southpaw relief ace Bob Lacey, in his not quite two seasons with the A's, already is 10th on their all-time charts in number of games pitched (138) and ninth in saves (12).

Question: Do you know how many big league players have won the triple crown in each league?

Answer: Four in the National League, seven in the American league.

They were, in the NL: Heinie Zimmerman, Chicago (1912); Rogers Hornsby, St. Louis (1922 and 1925); Chuck Klein, Philadelphia (1933) and Joe Medwick, St. Louis (1937).

In the AL: Ty Cobb, Detroit (1909); Jimmy Foxx, Philadelphia (1933); Lou Gehrig, New York (1934); Ted Williams, Boston (1942 and 1947); Mickey Mantle, New York (1956); Frank Robinson, Baltimore (1966); and Carl Yastrzemski, Boston (1967).

Hooray for another old timer, Johnny Unitas, who doesn't believe in "establishing the running game."

Responded Unitas, in a recent Sporting News interview in which he was asked what type of head coach he would be in today's pro football world, "I wouldn't be like 99 percent of the coaches today. I believe in running the ball only when there is nothing else to do.

"Today, 99 percent of the coaches will tell you that you have to establish your running game to pass effectively.

"I think that 99 percent of the coaches are full of bleep.

"The only time you don't throw the ball is when your quarterback can't throw it."

Local notes; When Jack Burgett recently announced that he was leaving his post as head football coach at Jefferson High School after a five-year stint there to become offensive line coach and offensive coordinator at San Francisco City College, Jefferson and the school district lost perhaps its best and certainly its most colorful football coach.

Burgett, a former Marine sergeant (he was also an All-Marine football player), was tough and mean with his Jeff kids, but as one of them recently remarked, "not mean, mean."

Which was a colorful way of saying that Burgett is not a mean man, only that he used that mask to drive players not only up to their capabilities, but often beyond, as he did last football season in taking an out-numbered, under-manned team almost all the way to what would have been the biggest long-shot football championship in the history of the North Peninsula League.

For all of his tough talk and often harsh training tactics, I never once heard one of his players put a knock on Burgett—after the season was over. During it, many of them may genuinely have believed they hated the man, but as they almost all admit when the wars are over, "He made us value hard work, he made us value football, he made us value school, and he made us men."

Now Burgett returns to his alma mater (he was an All-Golden Gate Conference player there in 1960-61), hoping that it will serve as a stepping stone to his life's ambition—a major college post.

As one of his Jefferson players recently summed it up; "He deserves it."

NPL baseball roundup

Ruzek triumphs for third time

By MIKE FICHER

El Camino High's Roger Ruzek is the North Peninsula League's answer to the mailman of old.

Neither uncharacteristic streaks of wildness or the weakening effects of the flu can stop the Colt righthander from his appointed rounds (translate — wins).

The dependable Ruzek delivered yet another victory, his third of the young NPL season, for the redoubtable Big Red Machine (4-0) Friday, an 8-1 downing of Oceana.

In other NPL games, Jefferson edged Woodside 8-7, Terra Nova nipped Half Moon Bay 6-5 and Serramonte beat South San Francisco in eight innings, 5-4.

Overcoming his "handicaps," Ruzek shut down Oceana on two hits but allowed his first run of the NPL season, albeit unearned.

"I was really looking forward to the shutout, but I was satisfied I did as well as I did considering I was sick yesterday," Ruzek said.

Oceana scored its lone tally in the sixth inning as swift centerfielder Tony Kerlagen walked, stole second, and scored when a throw on a pickoff attempt (on which Kerlagen would have been out) went awry.

Ruzek struck out seven and walked four batters, an unusually high figure for him.

"I was tired for the first few innings. I felt strong, though, at the end, probably because I had one week's rest. I usually don't walk that many, though," Ruzek said.

Taking advantage of four walks in the fifth inning, EC added four hits, including a double by Jeff Pettigrew and singles by Brian Humphrey, Ruzek, and Ken Lehane to plate six runs.

In addition to turning in another sterling pitching performance, Ruzek led the EC offensive charge with two RBI singles. Pettigrew added two doubles and two runs scored and Rog Canepa walked and scored in addition to his second inning bases-empty home run.

South City led Serramonte 4-2 and was within one out of victory when the Regents' first two batters were retired in the bottom of the seventh. Then Serramonte bounced back.

Mike Carella drew a walk and Dana Ynostroza blooped a pop-double to left, sending Carella to third. Ray Newhoff hit a hard grounder to shortstop; South City misplayed the ball, and Carella and Ynostroza both scored, making it 4-4.

The Regents won it in the bottom of the eighth. Tony Hale drew a walk, stole second and took third on a wild pitch. After a strikeout, Laralle Franklin hit a slow bouncer to shortstop; Hale and Franklin are the Regents' fastest runners, and the Warriors wouldn't have had a play at the plate even if they hadn't bobbled the ball. Hale, running all the way on the play, scored easily.

Jefferson trailed Westmoor 7-6 going into the bottom of the seventh; but the Indians rallied to register their first NPL victory. Louis Holt walked and took second on Dave McDonnell's sacrifice bunt. Calvin Peters lined a single down the left field line, plating Holt for 7-7. Pinch-hitter Hike Hara singled, sending pinch-runner Gary Foppiano to third. Hara lost his footing between first and second and was tagged out on the play, but that proved inconsequential.

Nolan Smith was intentionally walked, and then Jose Nuila drew an unintentional walk, loading the bases. On a 1-2 pitch, Indian catcher Clay Younger lined a 400-foot shot that would have been a grand slam under ordinary circumstances; instead, it went for a single, plating Foppinao — which was good enough for Jeff.

Tim Bettencourt cracked two singles and had a pair of RBI's for Half Moon Bay, but Terra Nova lifted its record to 4-0 on the strength of a three-run rally in the top of the fifth. With the bases loaded, one out and a run in for the Tigers, Greg Gomes gave TN a 6-4 lead by belting a two-run single.

County badminton roundup

Hillsdale girls set for showdown

With a 12-1 defeat of San Mateo Thursday Hillsdale High tied idle Mills for first place in the Mid-Peninsula League badminton standings.

The two 5-0 teams meet for the first time next Tuesday at Hillsdale in a match that could determine the MPL champion.

The Bearcats' lone victory came in the first singles match as Mary Atkinson beat Debbie Chen, 11-7, 11-6. Diane Robertson, who usually plays in the Knights' No. 1 slot, downed Dorothy Kan, 11-4, 11-2, in the second match. Hillsdale's doubles players, led by the top team of Carrie Dominguez and Kim Metter, were all victorious in two-game matches.

Capuchino defeated Burlingame 9-4. Mustang singles players did well despite the absence of top netter Liz Daniels as Wendy Tsuei, Michelle Sartor and Connie hart all won. Panthers Zesara Chan and Linda Pezzulich won in doubles, 15-9, 8-15, 15-12.

Crestmoor won its first league match, edging Aragon 8-5. The Falcons' strength came from the doubles players, who took all but two matches.

NPL

Terra Nova took sole possession of first place in the North Peninsula League by downing previously unbeaten El Camino 6-3. The singles matches were split; Tigers Karen Kern and Jane Balkistreri won their matches, and Sue Miranda and Anna Marcial won theirs for the Colts.

Oceana downed Westmoor 6-3. Although Westmoor has lost all its team matches, Ram singles star Wenn Yi Ting remains undefeated at 4-0, beat South S.F. 9-0 9-0 without losing a game. Their No. 4 and No. 5 doubles teams gave up only five points in four games played.

NPL swimming

Terra Nova closes on crown

Terra Nova High's swim team probably wrapped up the North Peninsula League title by beating visiting Westmoor 106-65 in NPL action Friday.

The Tigers are now 4-0 in league with only Jefferson (0-4) and South San Francisco (2-1) left to swim. In the other meet Friday South City beat Oceana 89-72.

"I really had 'em up today," said Tiger Coach Monty Iwanaga. "We had hoped to go either 1-2 or 2-3 in most events, and when you win eight of the 11 events, it doesn't hurt.

"The team has developed much better than I had expected at the beginning of the season," he said.

Tom Potter was Terra Nova's only double winner, as the Tigers really shared the wealth. Jeff Littlefield was a key winner in the 500 free. Bill Beedle took his specialties (the IM and breast) for the Rams in fair times.

The Frenzel brothers, Rick and Tim, almost won the meet against Oceana by themselves. They accounted for four first places, taking the 200 free, 100 free, 500 free and back. Eric Edhammer was a double winner for the Sharks.

Skyline takes share of first

Rich Anderson is a happy man.

For the second time as a Skyline College baseball player, Anderson got a chance to swing a bat. It was the first time he had come to the plate this year. He made the most of it. The Capuchino High grad slammed a home run with two runners on, aiding the Trojans to a 19-0 romp over Menlo Friday.

The win, coupled with Gavilan's loss to Hartnell, gives Skyline a share of first place in the Coast Conference.

Gordon Shirley and Matt Giampoli combined to pitch a five-hit shutout against the Oaks.

"For us it was a nice game," said Trojan mentor Bill Herron, "but for Menlo it must have been a long day."

Eric Tretten and Leon Gray each drove in three runs, while Dave Gazzano collected three hits and Mike Redlick added a pair.

Skyline reached first place for the first time this year; the Trojans have won nine in a row, seven in league. Menlo has now lost seven games in a row.

HE'S HOT

The hottest bowler in the Bay Area this year may be Mike Smyth of Daly City. He started the year off Jan. 2 with a perfect 300 game at Serra Bowl in the Ed Mann Classic league. Five days later he rolled an 805 series on games of 247, 279 and 279. He previously had a 300 game in March 1972 and March 7 of this year he rolled his third 300 in the Travel League at Castle Lanes. He followed that with a 298 the following week when the Travel League was at King's Bowl. Smyth, 28, has been bowling for 17 years, starting with the junior program at Westlake Bowl and Serra Bowl. He currently is bowling in six leagues and packs a 203 average.

Sundita goes to Luke AFB

Sgt. Nestor N. Sundita, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernesto Sundita, 87 Pacifico Ave., Daly City, has arrived for duty at Luke AFB, Ariz. The sergeant, an electric power line specialist with a unit of the Tactical Air Command, previously served at Kunsan AB, Korea.

Spaghetti Caruso Romano's special

A recent TV rerun of that great old movie, "The Great Caruso," triggered a run on a perennial favorite, Spaghetti Caruso, at ROMANO'S Italian restaurant at Rockaway Beach, Pacifica ... DEAN LEHR is already getting a flock of reservations for Easter Sunday dining in the flower-filled LEHR'S GREENHOUSE garden restaurant in San Francisco. There will be a special Easter brunch on Sunday, April 15, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. followed by dinner from 5 to 11:30 p.m., spotlighting the regular menu ... England's Great Pub Sandwich, a strong after-theater favorite in London, has become exceptionally popular in San Francisco at ROSEBUD'S ENGLISH PUB, across from the Geary and Curran theaters. Fried oysters and Canadian style bacon are served on a toasted English muffin with French mustard, Hollandaise sauce, shoestring potatoes and sweet pickles ... Most every evening finds celebrities dining at JIM SNIADECKI'S SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S. The former 49ers football star is frequently visited by sports luminaries who consider this Redwood City restaurant one of their favorite Peninsula dining spots ... One of the first liquor licenses ever issued in the area went to JOHN'S PLACE in Burlingame, which has become known as "a working man's bar" ever since it opened many years ago. New owner JERRY LYERLA pledges to carry on the traditions, including being open from 6 a.m. to 2 a.m.

PUFFING COMPETITION

Getting ready for the 1979 Peninsula Pipe Puffing Competition, which will be held at the Prince of Wales Pub in San Mateo on April 7, 7:30 p.m., are Pub owner Jack Curry (upper left), Jerry Beaumont, Greg Cronan (lower left), and Reg Escott. The Tinder Box in Hillsdale Shopping Center has put up $1,000 to be awarded to anyone who breaks the current world record of puffing just over two hours. To enter this free event, contact Dal Fagen (341-4945) or Jack Curry. Women are also invited.

Bayhill Lounge features Indeed

Things get lively around 9 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights at BAYHILL LOUNGE in San Bruno. That's when the popular INDEED group takes over the bandstand with their listenable, danceable music. MEL CICERO and HARRY CURUSIS have a large and loyal clientele who enjoy the friendly, comfortable atmosphere of their wood-paneled lounge ... Next door to VINCE'S Italian and Seafood restaurant in San Mateo is VINCE'S SEAFOOD DEPOT, which offers fresh fish and many delicacies from the briny deep (and even from fresh water sources, such as fresh trout) for take-home. There are also choice wines, French bread, canned clam sauce, mushrooms, tomato paste, assorted pastas, seafood breading mixes, tartar sauce, horseradish and other condiments. On Fridays, Vince's famous clam chowder is available in pints and quarts for take-home ... The menu at L'AUBERGE, the distinctive French country inn restaurant in Redwood City, is presented in handwritten calligraphy. This intimate luncheon and dinner house bears the reflection of particular care for quality and detail, which is the hallmark of Owner LOUIS FRUTSCHI ... With all the time-consuming demands to keep everything going at her TILLIE'S 'LIL' FRANKFURT German and continental restaurant in Moss Beach, Owner TILLIE SCHOLTZ, who does her own cooking, can even be prevailed upon once in awhile to accept a private catering assignment.

Serramonte Joe's party room bustles

The banquet room at SERRAMONTE JOE'S in Daly City is constantly bustling with party activities. Thirty members of the International Toastmistresses Club recently held their annual speech contest in the facility. The winner was Gloria Burton ... The Upstairs at BEARDSLEY'S in downtown Burlingame offers a bandstand, dancefloor, full bar and seating for special dinners, party events, business meetings, and is available by reservations ... Although the fame of JOHN & KATHY'S in South San Francisco was achieved largely because of the home cooking and pies baked on the premises by Owner KATHY WIMSATT, that doesn't mean calorie counters need to be deterred from enjoying this friendly spot. Kathy has created what she calls "Skinny Specials" No. 1 and No. 2 ($1.70) ... "Romantic" is a word often used to describe THE MOONRAKER in Rockaway Beach, Pacifica. It's easy to understand why — when you sit back in a comfortable chair in a plush setting, look out through panoramic windows at the surging surf, and order something like Long Island Duckling Bigarade and a fine wine. It's one of three great restaurants in the complex owned-operated by the GUST family (NICK'S for steaks and Italian specialties, and CAPTAIN CHARLES for gourmet seafood) ...

Phil Lehr's adds new dining room

With the addition of a beautifully appointed new executive dining room, PHIL LEHR can now accept reservations for private dinner parties up to 50 persons at his Pay-By-Gram Steakery, on the lower level of the S.F. Hilton Tower ... Friday evenings are more exciting then ever at THE BRASS ELEPHANT, the new restaurant and cocktail lounge in the Grosvenor Airport Inn, South San Francisco, since introduction of the big backgammon tournament, which takes place every Friday evening. General Manager JIM RAINE invites one and all to take part in the tournament, which is held under direction of the Pacific Backgammon Association ... One of the brightest new stars in the constellation of fine restaurants, for which the Peninsula is becoming known, is LA BELLA PASTA. Featuring authentic Italian cuisine from all regions of Italy, this Foster City restaurant (located in the Edgewater Place Shopping Center on the boardwalk overlooking the lagoon) is operated by SALVATORE FAVA, who is already known to gourmet food fanciers in San Francisco.

STRIKING Mills Hospital nurses vs. Mills Administration. Are critically ill patients being denied proper care? Examples: Bleeding — no beds. Delayed admission because of apprehension about going to another hospital leading to critical complications. Strikes by doctors, nurses, teachers and many categories of government employees are just plain rotten. Other means of job action are available — while you are working and caring. Public — what do you think? Reply The Times, AD #730, P.O. Box 5400, S.M. 94402.
